37 Amendments

Alabamians next Tuesday will have a chance to vote on 37 amendments to the state constitution, none of which changes the state constitution, and none of which change the state legislature's power to legislate.

The legislature has already passed bills requiring voters to take a literacy test, and has given the legislature the power to explain the amendments on the ballot, but it has no effect right away. But it might be enough to be important.

The Chipmunk Tree

On Nov. 15, Negro demonstrators in Greenville burned a cross and threatened to burn a bottle. A SOUTHERN COURIER editorial last week said this was "childish and probably criminal." Now the Greenville Public School reported on a school childhood project, where by chopping down the people's "loved chinaberry tree. This was a mean and despicable childishness contest, by chopping down the people's "loved chinaberry tree. This was a mean and despicable..."
The Circus Comes to Town

PHOTOGRAPHY BY JAMES H. PEPPLER

One day 15 elephants walked down Tallapoosa Street in Montgomery.

You might have thought Noah's Ark had just unloaded...

...unless you knew the circus had come to town.

Some of the animal trainers were almost as wild...

...as the animals they were training.

The clowns were a high point of the show.

Did you ever talk with a real clown?

The peaceful demonstration turned into violence after police arrested some of the demonstrators and two people were hurt, one of whom died. But the court was held to be a victory for the civil rights movement.

More than 2,500 county Negroes are now registered, versus 225 in August 1963. With thousands of the county's Negroes not yet registered, the SCLC and SNCC are continuing their efforts to register and educate the county's Negro population.

Cabbies' Main Gripe Is Arguments Over Fares

BY ED RABIN

MONTGOMERY—Local cab drivers say their number one "pet peeve" is passengers who argue about the fare, the drivers questioned in a recent survey had other complaints as well.

"But the drivers questioned in a survey had two other pet peeves—people who 'misload,' 'Misloading a ride with a friend,' and people who "misload,'" Misloading had two other pet peeves—people who call cabs when they're not ready to go, "Wanting the driver to cut across to a drive with a friend." "

"The passenger asking how long I have to go to get to that drive, and telling me the directions," the passenger asked how long I have to go to get to that drive, and telling me the directions.

"Some drivers thought there would be fewer arguments about fares but over the last few weeks, drivers have not been happy about the number of arguments they have had with passengers, and telling me the directions.
