Mobile Negro Press Leaders

Registrar to Speed Up Lines

By DAVID D. UNDERHILL

MOBILE - The Southern Courier's David D. Underhill writes about the Mobile Negro Press Leaders' attempt to register voters to speed up the process.

The Mobile County Commission offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.

The Mobile County Commission has offered a two-week period ending last Saturday, during which any person who has not been registered to vote was allowed to register. For the duration of the two-week period of registration in Jefferson County, no registration was allowed.

The two-week period ends on Friday, and election officials say that all registrants must have registered by this date. They have until March 18 to register.

The examiners in Jefferson County have registered more than 10,000 people. Of these, 11,000 were Negroes. About 11,000 people had signed up to register in the last two weeks, according to the election officials.

In Jefferson County, the registrar's office stayed empty for the entire weekend. The office was closed on Saturday and Sunday.

The registrar's office has not been able to keep up with the demand for registration. The office is only open from Monday to Friday, and many people have been unable to register because the office is closed on Saturdays.
A Night of Speeches at Tuskegee
MILITANCY NOT MODERATION IS THEME

BY MARY RILEY GALE

Another night of speeches is coming up. One of the speakers, it seems, will be the new civil rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. He will be speaking on "Non-Violence and the Struggle for Civil Rights." His speech is expected to be powerful, highlighting his commitment to nonviolent resistance and the importance of unity in the fight for civil rights.

In his speech, King will discuss the need for peaceful protest and the role of the Christian faith in the struggle for justice. He is expected to draw parallels between the civil rights movement and the teachings of Jesus Christ, emphasizing the importance of love and forgiveness in overcoming racial and social injustices.

King's speech will likely be a call to action, urging listeners to join the fight for equality and justice. He will encourage them to support the movement through nonviolent means, emphasizing the power of unity and the need for sustained efforts in the pursuit of civil rights.

The event is anticipated to attract a significant crowd, with many attendees planning to participate in subsequent activities and demonstrations. It is expected to be a pivotal moment in the ongoing struggle for civil rights, as King's words continue to inspire and galvanize those working towards a more just society.

Editorial Opinion

One Good Reason

To run for office a Democrat this year in Lowndes County, a candidate will have to pay ten times what the voters were paid. The county treasurer's book shows that a $500 campaign contribution will be necessary to run in most races.

The county treasurer says that the increase is necessary to add to the party treasury for the 1966 political campaign. "Now we're getting our first white member," he explained. "At one time, we had nothing but Negroes. Now we have a respectable number, and the county needs the money to meet political expenses." The treasurer expects to receive about $90,000 from donations and contributions this year.

Several Opportunities in Girl Scout Work

By PAT PROCTOR

School-age children of both backgrounds are offered several different activities through Girl Scouting. Among them are camping, community service, and cultural enrichment.

For at least half of Lowndes County, that $500 fee represents about half a year's salary. The treasurer says that the increase is necessary to add to the party treasury for the 1966 political campaign. "Now we're getting our first white member," he explained. "At one time, we had nothing but Negroes. Now we have a respectable number, and the county needs the money to meet political expenses." The treasurer expects to receive about $90,000 from donations and contributions this year.

Keep Warm Enough

BY DAVID M. UNDERWOOD

In the last issue, we wrote about a small group of people who were trying to help the homeless in the city. Among them was a nurse who worked at a local hospital. Her name was Mary Collins.

Mary Collins was a nurse at the University Hospital in Birmingham, where she had been working for five years. She was known for her compassion and dedication to her patients. One day, she overheard a conversation between two doctors.

"We need to do something about these homeless people," one of the doctors said. "It's not right that people should have to suffer like this.

Mary Collins decided to take action. She started a small group of volunteers who would deliver food and clothing to the homeless. They would meet every Friday night to plan their next move.

They decided to start by delivering food and clothing to the homeless camps on the outskirts of Birmingham. They would visit the camps every Friday night and leave supplies for the people who lived there.

The group grew quickly, and soon they were providing meals, clothing, and other necessities to the homeless people in Birmingham. They also worked with local churches and organizations to provide long-term solutions for the homeless.

The group's efforts were noticed by a local newspaper, which wrote an article about their work. The article was widely read, and soon the group received donations from people all over the country.

The group continued to work until the end of the year, and then disbanded for the winter. But they knew that they would continue to work to help the homeless in the future.

BY BRENDA L. HASSAN

The Girl Scouts of Central Alabama are offering a brand new program for boys called "Boy Scout World." The program is designed to provide young boys with an introduction to the world of scouting.

The program is open to boys from ages 5 to 12, and it is divided into two levels: the Cub Scout level for boys aged 5 to 8, and the Boy Scout level for boys aged 9 to 12.

The program includes a variety of activities, such as camping, hiking, fishing, and archery. Boys will also learn basic survival skills, such as building a fire and finding water.

The program is open to boys of all backgrounds, and there is no cost to participate. The Girl Scouts of Central Alabama are proud to offer this new program to boys in the area.

Letters to the Editor

"I'm glad you're going to be here tomorrow," the editor said. "I was concerned that you wouldn't show up because of the snow." I assured her that I would be there, and she thanked me for my commitment.

"I think we're doing a great job of bringing the community together," the editor said. "I love reading your letters, and I think they're helping to make our community a better place.

"I just wanted to let you know that I appreciate your support," she continued. "I know it's not easy to write letters, but I think it's important to have a voice in the community.

"I hope you'll keep writing," she said. "I look forward to reading your next letter."
BASKETBALL

PART TWO

a look at the sidelines

Photography
by
James H. Peppler
Koinonia Is A Way of Life

TEXT BY JAT PRANDINO; PHOTOGRAPHY BY JAMES S. PEPPLE

AMERICUS, Ga.—The Koinonia Farm was founded 24 years ago and still runs today on the Christian principles of peace, brotherhood, and the sharing of material goods. On 1,000 acres of farmland a dozen or so white and Negro residents of Americus, the hometown of W.E.B. Du Bois, have tried to create a community based on love, brotherhood, and sharing of material goods. The farm, which began as a settlement of 12 families, now numbers about 80 residents. Today there are about 20 to 30 people living together on the cooperative farm and sharing its small profits.

Mr. Jordan signed the applications of two Negroes for the Georgia State College of Agriculture, but later withdrew the applications because he felt that the local people were ready to break. As the fear of violence began to spread, the farm was vandalized, and the state health inspector gave the farm and camp facilities a rating of 70. Mr. Jordan explained that his pigs were native Georgia pigs, and stupider than most Georgia pigs. "That's not reasonable," said the Klan contact, "but if you want to keep the farm open, just let us have the pigs." The Klan even offered to purchase the farm and move it to the town of Americus, violence broke out against the Jordans, local residents pelted them with rocks, and stupidly, they weren't abusive, they were very kind. They just hurled angry accusations, But there was little violence.

The first lawyer was a local man, but the second lawyer was a Negro. Local officials tried to get the camp closed on grounds of sanitation and health. But Jordan gave evidence that all children required to present a health certificate signed by his doctor before being admitted to the camp, and the state health inspector gave the forms and camp facilities a good rating.

The farm is open to all races and carries on its religious purposes—bearing witness to Christ's teachings and spreading its message of Christianity. It speaks and writes about the farm, and encourages groups and individuals to visit and talk with the Jordans. Mr. Jordan said the farm serves two religious purposes—bearing witness to Christ's teachings and spreading its message of Christianity. It speaks and writes about the farm, and encourages groups and individuals to visit and talk with the Jordans.

In 1962, Mr. Jordan and the Rev. Martin England, exempt from the draft, were denied exemption. "That's not reasonable," said the Klan contact, "but if you want to keep the farm open, just let us have the pigs." The Klan even offered to purchase the farm and move it to the town of Americus. But others felt differently. A letter to the editor of the Americus Times-Recorder in July, 1956, called Koinonia a "group who have established themselves as a threat to law and order". However, in March, 1957, the Ku Klux Klan "held a regional gathering" at Americus to discuss the farm's charitable activities in Americus. "It looks like we're trying to show off good deeds," he said.

The farm had always been open to all races and creeds. But isolation was not the first source of trouble. The Koinonia staff, managers, and board of directors let the Jordans have their way, because they knew that the Jordans were the best people around. But the Jordans' names were announced at the local bank, and the Jordans' daughter, Jan, was graduated from Americus High School. By the fall of 1957, the farm had been formed into a 73-car motorcade on Dawson Road along the farm's east boundary. It

CONTINUED IN PAGE SIX, Col. 6
Walker and Winston Get U.S. Grant

CODYA -- The Community Action Committee for Walker and Winston counties has received third grant in partial fulfillment of its goal to bring results of past activities to bear in the present year. The latest grant of $24,231 is for a neighborhood youth corps project. The money will provide work opportunities for 200 youths between 14 and 21 years of age.

The Walker-Winston Youth Corps, under the direction of Gabby Ayers, will provide employment for these youths through the recruitment of a corps director.

The program is designed to open the top four grades to local paper that the desegregation plan was approved. They were sent better, for one thing. "We think we can find out about help available in August, said the Re v. John T. Porter, D.D.S. in Jasper, the coordinator of a neighborhood youth corps project, U.S. Grant.

"We've tried about all of this met in Jasper, the old union hall here and they were on mines and cotton means meant steady training in work skills," said Mr. Porter.

Two of the biggest difficulties they had in common were, first, how to get the community to work together for the betterment of both, and second, how to keep the work (and the group) going. The students from Auburn, Birmingham-Southern College, and Tuskegee University, and other student groups around the state.

The students were not the only ones involved in the improvement of education, W. M. Wadsworth, who said they were not the only ones involved in the high school. They reported that the equipment was better, for one thing, "This is a new and different situation from the community. We hope we have a better one," said Mr. Wadsworth. At the meeting they saw that the neighborhood had improved a little since the last report.

"The neighborhood youth corps project needs some work in progress to start, but we have some people who are interested and want to help," said Mr. Porter. The Walker-Winston youth corps is trying to bring the community together by working on a neighborhood youth corps project. The program is designed to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

During the morning, Human Relations Institute, has been elected president of the Monticello community. He said that the work would soon be started, and that the community is working to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

To combat slow registration SCLC staff members working in various parts of the country are working to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

The press conference might have gone as unplanned, except for the Braves and the baseball team.

Jefferson Davis Hotel. students from the white Choctaw County High School here. The latest announcement was made for the new school year. "We will be able to help the students from the white school to "freedom of choice" in the white Choctaw County High School, the Walker-Winston program is trying to bring the community together by working on a neighborhood youth corps project. The program is designed to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

During the morning, Human Relations Institute, has been elected president of the Monticello community. He said that the work would soon be started, and that the community is working to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

To combat slow registration SCLC staff members working in various parts of the country are working to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

The press conference might have gone as unplanned, except for the Braves and the baseball team.

Jefferson Davis Hotel. students from the white Choctaw County High School here. The latest announcement was made for the new school year. "We will be able to help the students from the white school to "freedom of choice" in the white Choctaw County High School, the Walker-Winston program is trying to bring the community together by working on a neighborhood youth corps project. The program is designed to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

During the morning, Human Relations Institute, has been elected president of the Monticello community. He said that the work would soon be started, and that the community is working to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

To combat slow registration SCLC staff members working in various parts of the country are working to improve the education and training of young people, and to bring the civil rights movement closer to the community.

The press conference might have gone as unplanned, except for the Braves and the baseball team.
Hulett Wins His Case Against Lowndes J.P.

BAYSVILLE -- When John Hulett was accused of shooting down a white man, 2,000 residents of Lowndes County hurled insults at him and threatened his life. He was arrested and charged with murder.

Hulett was arraigned for reckless discharge of a firearm in a public place. He was eventually acquitted of the murder charge.

Hulett said he shot the white man in self-defense, believing he was being attacked by the man.

Charges against Hulett have been dropped, and he will not face further charges.

Picketing Starts in Tuscaloosa

Hulett's victory has sparked renewed picketing activity in Tuscaloosa. Local civil rights leaders have been calling for greater integration and equal rights for African Americans.

They are demanding an end to segregation and the right to vote.

The Tuscaloosa community is divided on the issue, with some supporting the picketing and others opposing it.

The Tuscaloosa police have been actively monitoring the picketing activity.

Koinonia

Koinonia is a Christian community located in Georgia's Gold Country, founded by the late Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth and his wife, Margaret McWilliams.

The community is a retreat for people seeking a more peaceful and integrated existence.

The community's leaders have been promoting a message of love, peace, and justice.

The community is located in the heart of the Deep South, a region known for its racial tension and conflict.

RATES

For February Only

A FULL-YEAR SUBSCRIPTION -- $35.00

MAILED TO YOU EVERY WEEK

REGULAR RATE IS $5.00 a year

For Northern Subscription -- $10.00

Mail To:
The Southern Courier
Room 623, Frank Lee Bldg.,
19 Commerce St.,
Montgomery, Alabama 36104