Miles said his company's success was the result of "hard work, skill, and luck." He said his company had been in business for 15 years and had a full-time staff of 15 employees.

Miles also talked about the future of the company. He said he was optimistic about the economy and believed it would continue to grow.

In conclusion, Miles thanked the owners of the restaurant for their support and wished them continued success in their business.

Montgomery -- A Montgomery city councilman has received a report to show the city how to deal with housing problems.

The councilman, who is chairman of the city's housing committee, said he was pleased with the report and promised to use it to improve housing conditions in the city.

The report, which was presented to the council by a local housing organization, outlined several recommendations for improving housing in the city.

The councilman said he would review the report and make recommendations to the council on how to implement the recommendations.

Wallace’s Revenge

The State of Alabama’s plan to cut off public funds from Tuskegee Institute isn’t quite the tragedy that some people are making it out to be. Stuka Schools Superintendent Ernest Morse has a perfectly good point when he says the money ought to go to public schools first. The Institute’s annual budget is $100,000, which means it can barely support itself.

The main difference seems to be that last year Alabama elected a governor and this year, when he says the money ought to go to the student, other students responded with a little bit of the proverbial smashing.

Student groups invited Communists—and Stockely Carmichael—to speak on the campus. When an all-white jury freed the three, Jarrett, Meyer Joe Simms, and Shad swallowed their pride and joined the program.

Both students and faculty were still smarting from last Tuesday, when Stockely once again told the jury that they were being duped and completely belonging to a group that was a "pair" of a link between PACSA and SCA.

The audience—property of many James Lyle—compiled a magnificent electrical performance, and died at the end of the show.

The federal grand jury opened the case. "I don't call that a joke," said one juror. "I don't call that a trial, but I call it a trial for briefing and stenographic purposes.

Talk on Trip To Capital

BY BETTIF WILSON

H. D. Dutton—Charles Smith of the Lomax County, Christian Mennonite, said he is going to the trip to Washington, D.C., this summer. The conference of a group that visited several federal agencies in the area. Dutton said he expected to learn more about what the groups were doing than vice versa.

Mrs. Dutton said she expected to learn more about what the groups were doing than vice versa.

The conference at the Federal Reserve Board will be for the purpose of reaching a solution of the problem of hunger and keeping those vegetables growing as much as possible while they are fresh.

The $60,000 loan to Jacksonville, Alabama, for road improvements in the town, will be used to build a new downtown post office and to create jobs. This will give the people of Jacksonville a sense of security.

Southerners had the lemons--all the lemons--of the program which would make SWAFCA eligible for millions of dollars of additional funds.

The next meeting, to be held at the fairgrounds in Montgomery, will be for the purpose of reaching agreement on the program.

Barbour, Dale, Henry, OK’d for Head Start

BY MARY ELLA GAY

CLASSIFIED—After months of argument between the local officials and the people, the Barbour-Dale-Henry Community Action Program has finally been approved.

The CAP director, Charles L. Jones, said that the program will include a Social Services Program for 200 applicants—over 30 in each county.

Vinson said he had approved the program to relieve the need for food and clothing.
