We Can’t Leave And Do Nothing

MONTGOMERY - The average Tuskegee students family's income is below $1,000 or below. This is a critical 15 percent of Tuskegee's student body. Tuskegee's President Luther R. Foster, in a statement last week to the Tuskegee students, yesterday said:

"Let us make sure that Tuskegee..." he said. "...is a place where Tuskegee students can get a good education and an opportunity to succeed."

But Tuskegee's President said the institution's financial problems will be resolved in the near future. He said that Tuskegee's financial problems were due to the fact that Tuskegee's students were not paying their tuition and fees on time.

"We believe that Tuskegee's students should be encouraged to pay their tuition and fees on time," Foster said. "...and we will work with Tuskegee's students to make sure that they understand the importance of paying their tuition and fees on time."

Abilene City Council members elected two of the first black councilmen in Texas to serve on the council Monday night.

The city council's unanimous vote to elect Charles L. Jones and Louis Davis to the council came after a debate that lasted over an hour.

Mayor Bill Moore told the council he was going to ask the city manager to prepare a search committee to find a replacement for the council seat vacated by the resignation of the late Otho Ewing Jr.

"I believe it's an important time to fill this seat," Moore said. "I think it's important that we have a councilman who represents the people of Abilene."...

New Jobs for Poor People in Mississippi

By Gail Felt

JACKSON, Miss.—Every other Tuesday morning Doug Jenkins leaves Jackson with ten or 12 big bags full of cotton, hundreds of yards of cloth, several big cases of clear wax, and supplies of felt, suede, glue, thread, and yarn.

When he returns, late at night, all these things are gone. In their place, he has hundreds of stuffed dolls and as many sets of doll clothes, about 400 brightly-colored candles, boxes full of wood and suede jewelry, and a menagerie of stuffed lions, owls, and rabbits.

Jenkins works for the Poor Peoples Corporation (PPC). Tuesday in his day to deliver supplies to the six PPC co-ops in Clay and Monroe counties, and to pick up the work they had produced during the past two weeks. On other days of the week he delivers to one of the 25 other PPC co-ops scattered around Mississippi and brings back quilts, baskets, handbags, corn dolls, and new babies for the families who have been victims of the recent Mississippi mudslide.

For many people, that was enough. So far PPC has helped start 17 co-ops all over Mississippi. The co-ops operating now are in Senatobia, Flow, Belzoni, and Holmes counties. Some of the people who planted PPC had lost jobs because of civil rights activity. John Brown, now president of the West Point Woodworking Co-op, used to work in a stockyard where he was met with cattle prods.

But he quit his job after Negroes who tried to integrate a cafe where he worked were beaten. "It was what they needed most. And he believed that the only jobs Mississippi poor people would be able to handle were ones their hands and for themselves."

His answer was to start the Poor Peoples Corporation, "an organization to help the Negro poor man help himself," as the organizers described it.

"It's only jobs Mississippi poor people would be able to depend on," Jenkins added.

MONTGOMERY—The game was over, but the excitement was not. The Ladybirds had won, 11-10, over the Maxwell pitcher and the Maxwell pitchers, and the final result was 11-10.

For the Ladybirds, it was a thrilling victory. They had scored five runs in the top of the fifth inning, then added four more in the sixth, to take a commanding lead of 9-2. But the Maxwell pitchers, led by Miss Dorothy Capon, staged a comeback in the bottom of the sixth, scoring five runs to cut the Ladybirds' lead to 9-7. However, the Ladybirds held on to win.

The Ladybirds' star performer was Miss Nancy Kramer, who drove in four runs with a bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning. Miss Kramer was named the game's most valuable player.

Despite the loss, the Maxwell pitchers did not give up. They fought back with a vengeance, scoring three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to tie the game at 10-10. But in the top of the eighth inning, the Ladybirds scored the game-winning run on a bases-loaded walk to Miss Dorothy Capon.

The Ladybirds' victory was hard-earned, as they faced tough opposition from the Maxwell pitchers. But the Ladybirds' determination and teamwork paid off in the end.

The Ladybirds' next game is scheduled for next week, and they hope to continue their winning streak. The Maxwell pitchers, on the other hand, will have to regroup and come back stronger in their next game.
