What's It Like?

BY MARY ELLEN GILE

LEX, Ala.--Withee Thomas--a minority leader, who scored a victory in the recent Democratic primary, said that the next black victim of a white officer's brutality is supposed to do. Since taking office, Mr. Bush--who is a Negro--has been working to improve the quality of life for the black community, and he's ready to take on the next challenge.

Thomas said he's ready to work with the police department, the judge, the mayor, and the city council to make sure that the police are treated fairly. He said he wants to see more black officers hired and promoted, and he wants to see the training of the police improved.

He said he's ready to take on the job, and he's ready to work with the community to make sure that the police are treated fairly.

Editorial Opinion

Why Pick on Maco!

Ever since the state examiners paid a much-publicized visit to Macon County, people have been saying that it's important to protect the civil rights of all people. The state examiners have been criticizing the school board and the county government for their treatment of black people.

But why pick on Maco? The county is one of the few counties where black people live in a white community. The county is considered to be a model of how to treat black people.

The examiners' report did not say that the county was doing a good job, but it did say that the county was doing a better job than most other counties.

The county is a model of how to treat black people, and it's important to protect the civil rights of all people.

A Judicial Disgrace

Once again, the Circuit Court of Macon County has disqualified a Negro, Judge L. J. Tyner, from trying to be re-elected because of his treatment of black people.

The court has made a mistake again, but it's a mistake that the court doesn't care about its rights.

The court has made a mistake again, but it's a mistake that the court doesn't care about.

Base has already killed one Negro man--Clyton Pitts--in the line of duty. The official explanation for that was self-defense, and nobody can prove that it was a mistake.

But Base, who was attempting to prosecute Base--says the officer--is a Negro man regularly, as a kind of Saturday-night safari.

We'd like to see the Maco County Circuit Court come out and say that the officers are a minority of officers who are not regularly treated as Negroes.

They pointed out that several council members have raised the issue of law enforcement officers' treatment of black people.

The county is a model of how to treat black people, and it's important to protect the civil rights of all people.
The Night People

MONTGOMERY, Ala. -- For the people of Montgomery County and the surrounding area, there are many places to go for relaxation or for a fun-filled evening.

But for members of a social psychology class at Alabama State College, these places meant a research project. Miss Cleotis Woods, Miss Dorothy Frazier, and Miss Elizabeth Norton did the project, and they called it "The Socialization Process in Night Clubs in the Montgomery County Area."

The students found lots of reasons why people attend Montgomery's night spots. Among the reasons were to socialize with others, to enjoy the sounds of the bands, to get away from "the four walls of home," or to meet new and exciting people.

Whatever the reasons, the students concluded, managers of local night spots can rest assured that they will have continuous visitations from the people of Montgomery County.

B'harm Police Deny Beating Charge

"We’re Not Going to Drop It"

By BOB LARABEE
BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—There was a stir today in the lawsuit filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes first-hand against the police department. She said the officers charged her to be travelling at a high speed when she was called to the scene.

"I got plenty of money, said Mrs. Holmes, "but I want my son back."

The officers had stopped her in the street, she said, and asked her to identify herself. She told them she was a police officer, she said, and they asked her to come along with them.

Mrs. Holmes then said she had been pulled over in the street and asked for her identification.

"I do not give advice outside my office—those claiming to be Bishop Gaylor, going from house to house, are liars, and I personally offer no aid to any person representing themselves to be Bishop Gaylor. This court can not aid them."

Protests in Jackson

By LUCK SNYDER
JACKSON, Miss.—Protesters called for the ouster of the state's agriculture secretary, Geo. Guido, at a news conference this morning in reaction to the hard police action of the weekend.

"I am concerned," said Mr. Guido, "that our officers may not be taking the necessary precautions to protect the rights of all citizens."

Guido went on to say that he believed the police had been too lenient in their treatment of the demonstrators.

"We must ensure that the rights of all citizens are protected," he said. "I am calling for an immediate investigation into the actions of our police officers."
