Evers ‘Lost’ After Shooting

LOS ANGELES, California -- Charles Evers is at his hotel room and has not been heard from since about 3 hours after U. S. Senator Robert F. Kennedy was mortally wounded by a assassin.

But Evers had come to California to help Kennedy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I know him a little," said Mrs. Daniel, a friend of Evers. "He's in California now."

Mrs. Daniel said Evers had come to California in November to work on Kennedy's campaign. "But now I'm used to It," she said. "I guess it was their boss--came out early and wake me up," said Mrs. Daniel. "My husband and kids are doing fine."

"I think we're going to get somewhere," said Mrs. Daniel. "I think it's going to work.""}

"There's not anything going on here, " both women, said Mrs. Ethel Goodwin and Mrs. Goodwin. "They don't do anything."

But Mrs. Goodwin said she isn't going to do anything. "I'm through payin' for 'em," she said. "We don't need stamps anyway, but we're not very happy.

"We're giving them more than our fair share," said Mrs. Goodwin. "We have a stamp office, Mrs. Goodwin continued, we far e director, when asked why the price of stamps is steep: "In Pike County, people pay $12 a month. That's all.

"We have a program supervisor," said Mrs. Goodwin. "He's responsible for everything."

Picketing the Court

A few more incidents like last week's week-throwing binge at the U.S. Supreme Court building could mean disaster for the Fourteenth Amendment. The rock-throwing trial will be held on Monday, whether or not it actually happens. If the Supreme Court were to be interrupted by the public, it would be impossible to continue.

In the first place, it is not clear that the Supreme Court would have adequate security to prevent such a scene. The court has already had to evacuate the building because of security threats. In addition, the 1963 law against disrupting a federal building is unenforceable without adequate manpower.

But there is still the possibility that the court would be moved to a different location. The court has already had to relocate its sessions before.

It is clear that the Supreme Court cannot continue to operate under such conditions. The court has a duty to protect its members and its facilities.

The court's decision to continue with the session is a mistake. The court should have taken steps to prevent such incidents from occurring in the first place.

Jeffrey T. Martin, head of the political science department at the University of California, Los Angeles, is a registered Democrat but a die-hard conservative in ideological outlook. He helped the Democratic party in the previous presidential election and worked for the Reagan administration.

Boycott Since April
Troy Store Moving Out

By Mary Ellen Gale

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Troy, Ala., native was in the process of closing his Reo Ammons' grocery store last Thursday.

"I'm not surprised, He's been asking for it," Mrs. Irene H. Wilson shouted tearfully. "Anyone's got a right to go to the store that he's in.

"It wasn'tnothing in the world that he blurted out, "Pm not surprised, He's been asking for it," Mrs. Irene H. Wilson shouted tearfully. "Anyone's got a right to go to the store that he's in.

"When some black youths gathered outside the store and threatened, Mrs. Reo Ammons continued, "Reo went out to the street and stood right in the middle of the street and said, "If my life is worth anything, I'm not going to lose it."

"I've been a Humphrey man for a long time," Mrs. Irene H. Wilson shouted tearfully. "Anybody's got a right to do what he wants to do.

For Faculty Integration
C-Day Day of the Poor

NEW ORLEANS — J. Lawrence (Joel) Reed, a member of the university's faculty, has been named president of the university by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Within three days, Reed will be in full compliance with the court's order.

"You get defeated at a school," he said, "you've got some grade-grade grade--you would like to complete the integration," Reed said. "The court and judges must complete our task of school integration as soon as possible.

Medford, Massachusetts

Several black students — including the son of an Alabama man who registered to vote in 1965 after he was beaten by white police — will graduate from Medford High School this week. Among the graduates is John T. Smith, who was a star student at Medford High School.

"You know how beautiful a face a black child has in this day and age," said John T. Smith. "We've got to know that we're going to have to work for it, but we're going to work for it.

Miss Pettway Goes to the Prom

BY ESTELLE FINE

GEORGIA, Ala.—“We"re doing better, ma’am,” Mrs. Lillie Mae Pettway said about the $250 she received last Wednesday as a part of the “No Retirement Pay for Miss. Teacher” campaign. “We don’t want nothing but a new stove.”

The program—funded by the Office of Educator Opportunities—was originally scheduled to begin July 1, but was delayed for several months, after a vote to the late Georgia horticulturist, Alva Granger, the money loaned was not repaid. In her will, Mrs. Granger left $250 to the United Negro College Fund.

Loans between $200 and $300 must be repaid in two years. Loans under $200 must be repaid in one year. The program is designed to assist farmers in times of financial need, such as emergencies or to help with farming expenses.

Law alone cannot end racism, Attorney tells Tuskegee Group

One problem that Adams said was the lack of affordable housing in many African-American communities. “We have a housing problem that is not only racial but also economic,” he said.

Adams also criticized the lack of access to quality education and healthcare in many African-American communities. “We have a problem with education and healthcare that goes beyond race,” he said.

Despite these challenges, Adams said that there is hope for the future. “We must continue to fight for our rights and work towards a more just society,” he said.

After his talk, Adams was greeted with cheers and applause from the crowd.
