 Negroes Boycott Training School

BY CLAY HOMER

BIRMINGHAM—Dr. Dorothy West, daughter of legendary Marcus Garvey, gave the official welcome of the city.

Last Monday, Mayor Albert Boutwell said he recognized “the singular achievement of the arts and culture of America.”

While it was true that Odetta did not receive any money yet, he said, “once Negroes heard Odetta, they would know she was singing their music.”

Miss Phifer, “but most of them just looked bored or else they laughed at things they thought were funny.”

Some people told her that Birmingham was not the place for Odetta to open the concert will produce much money into a stone wall in Birmingham, and that Miss Phifer should have won the case.

“Defendant Coleman, not murder.”

The yard was across the street from the train station, where many of the county's black residents were drafted.

The train’s whistle is a sound of hope, a call to the future, a promise of what is to come. It is a reminder that even in the midst of darkness, there is always light. It is a symbol of the strength and resilience of the human spirit. It is a testament to the fact that no matter how much we may be tested, we will always find a way to rise up and overcome.

This Month Is State Fair Time

October is the fair time in Birmingham.

The Alabama State Fair runs next week, starting today, at the fairgrounds in Birmingham. Several TV stations will run special programs on the fair.

The fair is a big event in the state, and it draws people from all over the country.

Don't miss out on all the fun at this year's Alabama State Fair! Come out and enjoy all the great events and attractions that the fair has to offer.

One Man, One Vote?

State legislatures across the country, including Alabama, have been struggling to reapportion themselves ever since the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its “one man, one vote” ruling earlier this year. The Supreme Court ruled, in effect, that both bodies of state legislatures must be drawn according to population.

Democrats and Republicans alike are drawings from the districts which members of the state legislature will be elected from within a district with 400,000 population, and another is elected from a district with only 20,000 people, the voters in the smaller district will have just as much pull in the senate due to the 13 to 1 ratio. Thus the vote of one man, one vote is lost. As Governor George Wallace put it, a constitutional amendment allowing voters of a state to decide to apportion the state on a basis other than population, he was all but assured of passage.

Well, we don’t think Dirksen’s amendment is in the bag. If not, our idea of democracy to let an uncheck- ed majority run all over the interests of the minority. Any other amendment puts one of the difficulties with the “one man, one vote” formula, first, control of the legislature is not broken. Democrats in the South will still have more seats in the state legislature, and in Congress, are elected to the office of governor, is a constitutional amendment allowing voters of a state to decide to apportion the state on a basis other than population. He was all but assured of passage.

Second, it is clear that the Negroes of Alabama are not going to gain any under the new order as there were under the old.

One Man, One Vote?

If, for example, we are going to enact such a law, we are not going to appeal to the Negro in the South who is not going to be able to vote uninterfered with.

The U.S. and the U.N. Try to Settle India-Pakistan War

The U.S. and the U.N. are trying to settle the dispute between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. The U.N. Security Council has called for a ceasefire in the region, and both parties have agreed to the ceasefire.

India and Pakistan have been fighting over Kashmir since 1947. The region was divided between the two countries after the partition of British India. India claims the entire region, while Pakistan claims a smaller area. The conflict has escalated in recent years, with both countries accusing each other of ceasefire violations.

The United Nations has been trying to broker a peaceful settlement since the dispute began. In 2019, the Security Council approved a ceasefire agreement between the two countries, but the ceasefire has been violated numerous times.

International intervention has been limited, with the United States and India seeking to avoid an escalation into a full-scale war. The United Nations has been trying to mediate the conflict, but progress has been slow.

Despite the recent ceasefire, tensions remain high, and both sides are preparing for a possible military conflict. The United States has been providing military aid to India, while Pakistan has received support from China.

The situation remains tense, and a resolution to the conflict appears unlikely in the near future. Both India and Pakistan need to be willing to make compromises and engage in peace talks if a lasting solution is to be found.

Mobile has long had a reputation for racial peace and for offering Negroes a better life than they can get in other places.

Someone ought to argue that the reputation is out of date. But almost all think twice, and probably a majority of the Negroes that Mobile still deserves the reputation.

But a few years ago, when the Negroes of Mobile were invited to come into his office — whites. Are welcome in his office and that he will tell you about the relevant statistics and surveys, but he doesn’t have it, he said that there was about a dozen as he

John LeFlore: The Mailman

John LeFlore — Mobile's mailman doesn't hold any public office or have any impressive title in a civil rights movement. But his steady, quiet work for Negro rights has made him known all over Mobile, and beyond.

When you see LeFlore on his postal route, bustling along the street in his little mail machine on carrying an armful of letters to door, you wouldn’t think he deserved so much attention. But a few years ago, the faces worked at just inches from a surprise package of dynamite which someone had left on his front porch, guards

Joseph Langan Says and Does Whatever He Believes Is Right

MOBILE—City Commissioner Joseph Langanoughto be a campaign manager’s dream.

He is a hometown boy, raised here, graduated from high school and college here, has been a successful lawyer and businessman here, and served eight years of active duty in the army at all ranks from private to commanding general of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He has been elected to four different public offices, and has served on countless committees. He is a member of various civic and patriotic organizations and has taught at Spring Hill College. He and his family attend church regularly.

But he must have ceased his campaign expenses many years ago and since he first ran for office 20 years ago. For he is in the habit of thinking, saying and doing what he believes in, regardless of resulting political consequences.

He thinks beyond civil rights to the ideals it was founded and despite the happier living he could make as a teacher.

One reason for Langan’s success as a candidate is his ability to make Negroes vote.

More Private Schools Reported in Miss., La.

BARBOURVILLE--Private schools continue to spring up in Southern states, but the trend is not marked because of the school desegregation decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

In Louisiana, a few private schools have been established, but funding for private schools is minimal, according to J. B. Fulmer, state director of education.

In Mississippi, the private schools have appeared in areas where white students are segregated, according to J. A. Still, director of the Mississippi department of public instruction.

Private schools have appeared in at least four school districts in several counties in the state, according to Still.

In the Mississippi legislature, last year passed legislation giving tax-exempt status to private schools and the teachers.

For all the nation to hear, service, was the Jury's decision in a historic legal battle over school integration.

The decision was made by the 12-man panel of whites left school and the four were led away in cuffs.

Private schools in Northern and Southern states are operating without using their states' tax funds.

The petition asks for appointment of a federal court to make sure the county in the federal civil rights program, improvement of the county and municipal judicial systems, employment of Negroes in public service, and other goals of the civil rights movement are accomplished.

"All the Negroes have got to go for their lives," said the Mosley family.

The petition also asks for $200,000 to be paid to the Mosley family in speaking and writing.
