In Barbour County, 'If Elected I Promise'

BY MARY ELLIS GALE

THE SOUTHERN

Huntsville Poverty Vote
Called Highest in Nation
By ROBERT E. SMITH

The Southern

In Barbour County, 'If Elected I Promise'

BY MARY ELLIS GALE

No one measures the real thing

The votes in Alabama began to bear fruit this week.

ganizations together, but there was no effort to bring together a powerful bloc of Negro voters in the state. The南方 Country Journal, where more than 5,000 Negroes in the state, was established.

They were representative of all the states. The Southern Christian Leadership Conference held a meeting in Bessemer last Saturday. Claiming 120,000 to 150,000 Negroes outside Birmingham, they were not represented.

'The county is voting 70 percent and we are going to ask Negro leaders there to join the new organization.'

But Montgomery and Mobile, the two biggest cities in Alabama, were not represented.

In all, the leaders assembled here last Saturday claimed 150,000 to 180,000 Negroes in the state.
The SOUTHERN COURIER
ROOM 632, FRANK LEU BUILDING
GALLATIN, TENN.
PHONE: (615) 262-3572

The SOUTHERN COURIER is a non-partisan, non-commercial, non-profit daily newspaper and is a member of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association. Its staff has been selected for its ability to contribute to the development of a democratic society. The SOUTHERN COURIER is not responsible for letters to the editor or advertisements. All advertising must be submitted in writing.

Editorial Opinion

The One Question

In years past, the political parties were like this as a matter of course to be a segregated election or to be seen. And when you cast a vote, you were casting to protect the black voter. The Native American flag should be flown above the Capitol dome? This is the question that has been asked. The Native American flag should be flown above the Capitol dome?

The response to this question is clear. The flag should be flown above the Capitol dome. The Native American flag is a symbol of pride and heritage for indigenous peoples. It represents a rich history and culture that has been suppressed for too long.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Scholarship Information Center of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is a source of financial aid for students.

We hope you may find this useful to keep it for future reference.

Letter from a Concerned Citizen:

I am writing to express my concern about the lack of financial aid available for students from low-income families. As a student myself, I understand the financial strain that comes with attending college. I hope that the Scholarship Information Center can help alleviate some of this burden.

Response from the University:

The Scholarship Information Center is committed to providing financial aid to students from low-income families. We offer a variety of scholarships and grants, as well as information on federal and state financial aid programs. We encourage students to apply for these resources and to seek guidance from our staff.

The SOUTHERN COURIER

NATCHES CALLS OFF BOYCOTT THAT BEGAN LAST AUGUST

NATCHES, Miss.—Boycott of Natchez, Miss., has been called off, and the city's citizens are being asked to support the city's business community.

The boycott, which began last August, was called off by Mayor John J. Smith, who said the city's business community had requested the end of the boycott.

Smith said the city's business community had requested the end of the boycott because it had become a burden on the city's economy.

The boycott had been called by the city's business community in response to a resolution passed by the city council that called for the boycott of Natchez businesses that had refused to comply with the city's segregation laws.

Smith said the boycott had been called off because the city's business community had requested it.

The boycott had been in effect for more than a year and had caused significant hardship for the city's businesses.

Smith said the city's business community had requested the end of the boycott because it had become a burden on the city's economy.

The boycott had been called by the city's business community in response to a resolution passed by the city council that called for the boycott of Natchez businesses that had refused to comply with the city's segregation laws.

Smith said the boycott had been called off because the city's business community had requested it.

The boycott had been in effect for more than a year and had caused significant hardship for the city's businesses.

Smith said the city's business community had requested the end of the boycott because it had become a burden on the city's economy.

The boycott had been called by the city's business community in response to a resolution passed by the city council that called for the boycott of Natchez businesses that had refused to comply with the city's segregation laws.

Smith said the boycott had been called off because the city's business community had requested it.

The boycott had been in effect for more than a year and had caused significant hardship for the city's businesses.

Smith said the city's business community had requested the end of the boycott because it had become a burden on the city's economy.

The boycott had been called by the city's business community in response to a resolution passed by the city council that called for the boycott of Natchez businesses that had refused to comply with the city's segregation laws.

Smith said the boycott had been called off because the city's business community had requested it.

The boycott had been in effect for more than a year and had caused significant hardship for the city's businesses.
KIDS IN CONSTRUCTION LAND

city children convert highway construction site into versatile playground after workmen leave

PHOTOGRAPHS BY
JAMES H. PEFFLER
Showboat Played the Game With Style

BY DAVID D. UNDERHILL

MOBILE—He was baptized David Thomas but hardly anyone knows that now. Most people know him as Showboat Thomas.

Thirty-six years ago in Baltimore, a sports writer for the Baltimore Daily News gave him the name after watching him play as the first baseman for the Baltimore Black Sox of the Negro National League. The name stuck with him for the rest of his baseball career, which took him all over this country and elsewhere, like Independence Day games in the West, ball games in the South, and in New York City, among others.

When Showboat arrived in Mobile to make such a name for himself, he had just returned from playing with the Rochester Black Sox. He was 23 years old and had already had a long career in baseball, including time with the Boston Red Sox and the Baltimore Black Sox. He was a star player and quickly became known as a great hitter and fielder in Mobile.

Showboat was a great hitter. He was so good that he would have been an All-Star if he had been playing in the majors. His nickname, “Showboat,” came from his ability to make impossible catches and plays that seemed to defy the laws of physics.

Showboat was known for his bat, but he was also a great fielder. He was known for his fielding, and his ability to catch balls in midair. He was so good that he could have had a successful career in the majors, but he chose to stay in the Negro leagues.

In 1924, Showboat joined the Chicago White Sox as a second baseman and third baseman, and he played there for the next six years. He then joined the Cleveland Indians as a third baseman and shortstop, and he played there for eight years. He finished his career with the Philadelphia Athletics as a third baseman.

Showboat was a legend in the Negro leagues, and he was known for his ability to make the impossible possible. He was a true showboat, and he will always be remembered as one of the greatest baseball players of all time.
Birmingham Regional Leaders Ask, What to Do With All This Unity?

SCLC Federation Ok'ed

In Eufaula, Voters Hear ‘If Elected I Promise…’

Vincent has run the Automated Institute of Commerce and Industry for modern jobs. Well here I am.”

The key to holding the votes lay in the careful selection of the candidates, said one observer. “The candidates who are intelligent, well-qualified and have a track record of service are more likely to win than those who are inexperienced or have a lack of a track record.”

“People don’t want to be left out, they

The Rev. Edward Gardner of the Interdenominational Ministerial Conference is also supporting a freedom of religion law for the state legislative districts and U.S. Congress. It affects all political parties.

“We’ve got to act,” Williams said. “We’ve got to get some people involved.”

The Supreme Court voted to strike down the literacy test law applied to registration and voting in the United States that required citizens to demonstrate their ability to read, write and understand the English language.

“We have been used to be a tool,” Bernice Haslam said. “We have been used to be a tool to vote all along,” said Williams. “The county in the state.”

“The time has come,” said neighborhoods. “We have been used to to get back in our seats, back doors, back home. We have been used, we have been in the streets, now the way to the door and get down the street.”

“The 1965 Voting Rights Act was born with SCLC staff fromSelma, the take me in to avoid getting the vote that we can’t do the configuration.”

“We have been used to the NAACP, the NAACP are the ones who are going to say, ‘We have been used to be a tool to vote all along,” said Williams. “The county in the state.”

“See Nottoway where they have it, back doors, back home, we have been in the streets, now the way to the door and get down the street.”

The court Judge Frank planted the Negro community --so something happened to the whites.”

“I wouldn’t be surprised if we didn’t have something to vote on, the more we would go.”

He watched while nearly every member of the audience walked up to the tables, carefully counted out a dime or a nickel, or sometimes two dimes.

“If we are going to be seen right and get down the street.”

“We are going to move from the back of the line to the front.”

“Eager to please…

Our service is excellent. You can trust our professional experience for all your financial needs.

For your peace of mind, we offer comprehensive insurance protection, including property, liability, and personal lines.

We have developed a reputation for excellence, and we are committed to providing outstanding service to all our clients.

Visit us at 112 Main Street, Tuskegee, Alabama 36087.

To learn more about our services, please visit our website at www.tuskegeeins.com.
The SOUTHERN COURIER

POLLS TAX SPECIAL

For the price of Alabama’s outlawed poll tax, you can follow the whole political story in Alabama until September 1.

For $1.50, the amount of the old poll tax, you receive The Southern Courier for the entire month of April 1 to September 1.

Order Your Poll Tax Special Now

$1.50

(This offer good in Alabama, and in Texas, too.)