Flowers Gets Support Of Both Negro Groups

BIRMINGHAM—Alabama’s two major Negro political action groups haven’t always seen eye-to-eye on everything, but both have backed Robert F. Flowers, candidate for governor—Attorney General Richard M. Flowers, the Alabama Democratic Conference, Inc., endorsed Flowers Sunday after a close vote in the screening committee.

On the other hand, the new conference of Alabama Political Action Commissions, with state general chairman as general chairman, was opposed to Flowers.

According to ADCI advisor Heber Williams of Muscle Shoals, the vote in the group’s political action committee was 8-6 for Flowers, for former Governor George C. Wallace and for the Democratic conference.

“We were voting for the conference chairman, A. Lee Bullock County Sheriff, said another Negro as the conference chairman, and another member of the Negro conference.

“I told them that they had to be voted on because we didn’t sign up for our cotton check until after the deadline and the Friday. The court ordered the special election for the new law passed with $7,000 a year or more. We got the job.

“I made up my mind I was going to speak to the media about this stuff. I have a problem tied to that and want to say it, and I told Bob that if we let him have the work, we’d have to come back through another door and another window,” Mrs. Moore said.

“Fuck yaa!!” she said, meaning she and others also paid a visit to the county of agriculture in Washington.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

John Peterson should not have made the charge that Negroes who failed to vote in the recent election somehow were being uncooperative or uninterested. John Peterson is a member of the probate court in Elmore County, Ala.

I hope that he does not think that I am being uncooperative by writing to him. I have always been applied to illiterates, who were registered to vote by the state of Alabama.

I hope that these regulations about how people will be able to register to vote is not going to be used to teach illiteracy.

In the past, the Attorney General of the state has ruled that the law of Alabama is wrong. I believe that it would be wise, for him now, to straighten out the confusion that exists.

It is not true that the probate court in Elmore County has closed its doors to illiterates. I believe that the probate court in Montgomery, Ala., is open to all.

To the Editor:

I was interested in your recent article on the publicity surrounding the probation officer. I am not sure why he was in the news, but I was, however, surprised to learn that Mr. Peterson has been declaring war on the courts.

I am a member of the probate court in Elmore County, Ala., and I have always been applied to illiterates, who were registered to vote by the state of Alabama.

I think that it is important that we do not allow illiteracy to continue. I believe that the probate court in Montgomery, Ala., is open to all.

If Montgomery United Appeal Fund plans work out, the Capitol City Boys' Club will one day be in a new brick building on almost two acres of land.

Today the Boys' Club, founded in 1961 and operated since then by Mr. and Mrs. William 'Kid' Franklin, is located in a six-room wood building surrounded by a scant 100 square feet of playground - basketball court.

Even so, the Capitol City Boys' Club offers underprivileged Negro boys of Montgomery an opportunity for woodshop, library, arts and crafts, basketball, baseball, football, boxing, and table tennis.

The youngsters are also exposed to a code of conduct in the Boys' Club oath, which Franklin requires the boys to memorize:

"I believe in God and the right to worship according to my own faith and religion. I believe in America and the American way of life, in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. I believe in fair play, honesty, and sportsmanship. I believe in my Boys' Club which stands for these things."
High School Artists Use Their Hands and Their Minds

From Lumps of Wet Clay to Works of Art

TEXT AND PHOTOGRAPHS BY DAVID R. UNDERHILL

High school students in Trinity Gardens High School recently completed a special art project that had been initiated by an art teacher and that had involved nearly all the students in the art department. The project was to create a series of ceramic sculptures that would be displayed in the Trinity Gardens High School art gallery.

The project began with the selection of a particular type of clay, which the students had to shape and mold into various forms. They then had to fire the pieces in a kiln to harden them. The final step was the glazing process, which involved pouring a special glaze over the surface of the sculpture to give it a glossy finish.

The project was organized by Howard King, who is a well-known artist and art teacher at Trinity Gardens High School. He has been teaching art for many years and has worked with thousands of students, many of whom have gone on to become successful artists themselves.

During the project, King explained to the students the importance of using their hands and their minds to create art. He emphasized that art is not just about making pretty pictures, but also about expressing ideas and emotions. He encouraged the students to think creatively and to experiment with different techniques and materials.

King also stressed the importance of collaboration and teamwork. He explained that art is often a group effort, and that the best results are achieved when everyone works together.

The students were given a variety of materials to work with, including clay, wire, and paper. They were also encouraged to think outside the box and to use their imagination to create unique works of art.

At the end of the project, the students were able to see the results of their hard work. They had created a series of ceramic sculptures that were both beautiful and thought-provoking. The project was a great success, and it served as a reminder of the importance of using our hands and our minds to create art.
