Victim Says, 'Don't Let This Pass Over'.

By Mary Ellen Gale

HURSTBROOK, Ala.--George Washington Pace, a 30-year-old Negro road worker, finished a day of grass-cutting around 5 p.m. on the evening of Sept. 28, 1966. He then went to a drugstore and was finished out on the street.

What happened during the time Pace was in the curiosity of the drugstore and on the street is best described by one story. Coppelburn and hotel officials think the story was told by Mrs. Emma Swanston, Pace's sister, angrily charged that she had been threatened by a man who was just killing niggers.

"They was just killing niggers." This is all that Mrs. Swanston could say when she was asked why she came to see the Rev. K. L. Ford, President of the Federated Leadership Organization of Negroes, "no written response was asked for killing a Negro, and indicted by the Grand Jury.

"He told us they done beat him." she said. "He said, 'Don't let this pass over.'"

Farmers Challenge Vote

By BETH WHEELER

SELMA, Ala.--"If this is good for me, it is good for all Negroes," Mrs. Marye McElhaney said last night that she lost her Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) after complaining to President John son about being denied ADC because she had taken her children away from the state welfare department to stop using the agency "as an instrument of racial discrimination."

Mrs. McElhaney, 65, said she had taken her five children away from the state welfare department in 1962 to protest its contribution of state welfare funds to the Texas Christian College in Fort Worth, Tex., which recently ended a three-year refusal to register Negro students.

"I don't believe we should get on our knees and beg for the things we are entitled to," Mrs. McElhaney said at a rally after the Supreme Court of the United States last week declared unconstitutional a section of the Social Security Act which provided federal grants to states only if they provided "adequate and uniform" welfare programs.

The court's ruling, in which Mrs. McElhaney was a plaintiff, is expected to result in $66 million of federal aid being paid to states and communities over the next two years.

"This is a big victory for the South," Mrs. McElhaney said.

In addition to receiving $66 million of federal aid over the next 10 years, which will be distributed over 50 states, communities and institutions, the court's decision is expected to result in an increase in state aid of $19 million for the next three years.

Mrs. McElhaney, a single mother of five children, said she had been denied ADC for her family because she had taken her children away from the state welfare department.

HIPPIE IS NECESSARY

SAN FRANCISCO, California—In San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district, hippies are exploring what other people have forgotten how to do.

Hippies are not as you might have imagined them in the Hollywood B-movies of your mind. They are not the sex-fiends, dope-addicts, and at-heists you see on TV or read about in the papers.

Hippies are good people. If you ventured into their world, you might find it very refreshing.

Hippie is very necessary.

Race Problem Looms in Great Britain
As Immigrants Hunt for Homes, Jobs

LOND ON, ENGLAND--The men who collect tickets on the bright-red double-decker buses in London are noticeable for two reasons. One is that the ticket-takers are only the people who can keep their balance on the top-heavy bus as they twist around the narrow streets of Great Britain's capital city.

The other remarkable fact about London bus ticket-collectors--and London bus drivers--is that most of them are black. To a visitor, this is probably the first indication of England's growing racial problem.

Until World War II, many people living in England had never seen a black person. During the war, Americans of Negro sojourn were stationed all over the country. But the Americans were foreigners and left as soon as the war was over.

Then, in the 1950's and early '60's, a new change came. England begins to feel an obligation to open its doors to citizens of the far-flung countries which were members of the Commonwealth. Most of these nations were largely non-white, and most of them didn't provide many good opportunities or a very high standard of living.

As a result, thousands of black people left their native lands and made the trip across the oceans to the island of England. Now there are 1,200,000 black people in Britain--about one for every 50 whites.

The overall ratio isn't large, but the newcomers haven't spread themselves evenly among the white population. The black immigrants live in and around the major industrial centers. Cambridge--a 1,000-year-old university town--now has nearly 40 black residents for every 25 white ones. There are Commonwealth Immigrants' clubs--and they have been almost exactly the same percentage of black and white people living in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and many other towns in the north of England.

And in the United States--the black people are found with racial discrimination.

One of the first problems a black newcomer in England finds is a job. 45% of all men, is given the same kind of job.
Feeding 20 Kids ‘A Bath Every Night If I Want’ On $100 a Month

By BOB WILSON

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Thirty poor kids from all over the state — 18 of them orphaned when their mother died of cancer — may live to have a chance to hear the―― They are fed and napped and talked about and looked at and made to believe it is the beginning of the world.

This is one of the oldest and most successful cases in which Blackfoot children have been used to feed some poor people in the United States.

One of the children, a girl of 8, told the others that they had heard of some poor children who were being fed on the streets of New York City.

The other children, who ranged in age from 9 to 14, were told that these children had been abandoned by their parents and were left to fend for themselves.

“I don’t want to be like that,” one of the children said.

“We don’t want to be like that,” said another.

The children were then given a meal of rice and beans, along with some fruits and vegetables.

They were then told that they would be taken to a nearby playground and given some toys and games to play with.

The rest of the children were then taken to a nearby church, where they were given a bath and a change of clothes.

The children were then taken back to the playground and given some more toys and games to play with.

Kick Wins City Classic for BTW

The Montgomery Advertiser
November 18, 1967

BY MICHAEL E. LOTTINGHAM

Montgomery, Ala. — A 16-year-old field goal gave a near-certain victory to the St. Jude (Montgomery) Football Team, as Towson's Steve Kick scored the winning point after an incomplete pass by Athens' Robert Wins in the City Classic Saturday at the L. B. Cram Field.

Jesse Fitzpatrick's Dick, in fourth period, went 80 yards to paydirt, and the Yellow Jackets played by Eddie Thomas made only a fumble on second and four at the 17-yard line, giving the Jackets their fourth straight victory over the Carvers.

Kick's kick made the score 16-15. In the first quarter, Podolak kicked the first field goal of the game, during the second period, after the 30,000 spectators ignored the plea to watch Montgomery police arrest a woman.

Police Lieutenant Frank Johnson, in charge of the Cunnington Bowl event, said the man was arrested after two Georgia participants Andrew O'Dell ran out of the police officers on the playing field.

Several people in the vehicle charged the police with brutality, but Johnson said he "didn't see a kid answer." The police officers finally stopped the man, who attempted to throw the man, a white officer, into the turn of the game and struck in the man's back, after the man was hit.

Johnson told the police had not used "force," a sort of gun that can cause a delay for a short period of time, but another officer said the gun "had been used." After the game, several people came down from the stands and surrounded the man. One Georgia officer pulled his gun, a .45. "About 50 shots" were fired, "That's when I'm going to leave," the officer replied. "Try running." Today's game.

The man later identified as King in front dugout charged with assault and battery, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct.
