Chairman of New Party Urges Support of LBJ

BY MICHAEL L. LOTTMANN
MONTGOMERY, Ala.--The New Party is urging support for President Lyndon B. Johnson in the 1966 elections.

"We are going to Washington to press our issues," said Howard, "but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.

As the New Party platform is debated in Washington, the Alabama-New Party is working to mobilize its supporters in the state.

For the New Party platform, Howard said, "We're going to Washington to press our issues, but we don't want to lose the heat of the campaign." Howard said he was going to Washington to work on the New Party platform and to meet with other civil rights leaders.
The Southern Courier

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am sending $1 for three months preparation, March 24th. But I can't wait for a year, because I need it now. Work is hard for black women.

I'm still waiting for my face to be worked on.

I have one child; she is 16 years old. I can't wait to work two days at $5 and get $94 worth of stamps and was getting $94 worth of

I wish the government would start programs to provide for the Negroes a chance at a degree of high school learning. Pray for the Negroes. They are just as God's children, O. S. Adams

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was sent to be in front of the building at 11:30 a.m. by someone who said they had to go to the Democratic Party. I was told the building was going to be burned down.

I heard that the building was going to be burned down.

Jerome C. King

To the Editor:

I want to express my appreciation to my friend, Mr. O. S. Adams, for his continued support and encouragement.

I want to thank him for his continued support and encouragement.

Selma Man Turns Down Reinstatement by Coke

By BETTY WILCOX

SELM: Coca-Cola Bottling Company gave C. C. Scott a $500 to pay for being shot at the walk-in door of a book store.

Coke asked him to return to him in the book store.

When asked whether he was going to return to him in the book store, Scott said, “The office is all right.”

Selma: Betty Wilcox, a city commissioner in Birmingham, said, “I don’t know whether he’s going to return to him in the book store.

Betty Wilcox, a city commissioner in Birmingham, said, “I don’t know whether he’s going to return to him in the book store.

To the Editor:

I was sent to be in front of the building at 11:30 a.m. by someone who said they had to go to the Democratic Party. I was told the building was going to be burned down.

I heard that the building was going to be burned down.

Selma Man Turns Down Reinstatement by Coke

By BETTY WILCOX

SELM: Coca-Cola Bottling Company gave C. C. Scott a $500 to pay for being shot at the walk-in door of a book store.

Coke asked him to return to him in the book store.

When asked whether he was going to return to him in the book store, Scott said, “The office is all right.”

Selma: Betty Wilcox, a city commissioner in Birmingham, said, “I don’t know whether he’s going to return to him in the book store.

Betty Wilcox, a city commissioner in Birmingham, said, “I don’t know whether he’s going to return to him in the book store.

To the Editor:

I was sent to be in front of the building at 11:30 a.m. by someone who said they had to go to the Democratic Party. I was told the building was going to be burned down.

I heard that the building was going to be burned down.

Selma Man Turns Down Reinstatement by Coke

By BETTY WILCOX

SELM: Coca-Cola Bottling Company gave C. C. Scott a $500 to pay for being shot at the walk-in door of a book store.

Coke asked him to return to him in the book store.

When asked whether he was going to return to him in the book store, Scott said, “The office is all right.”

Selma: Betty Wilcox, a city commission
Last weekend, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. toured Alabama, seeking support for SCLC's campaign to lead "waves of the nation's poor and dispossessed" to Washington, D.C., on April 7. This campaign is "not a march," says SCLC. "We will go there, we will demand to be heard, and we will stay until America responds."

Dr. King said he hopes to start the campaign with 3,000 poor people from ten cities and five rural states. The objective: "Poverty will no longer be a secret—it will be a visible fact."
Alabama Minister Leaves to Work in Watts

BY MARY ELLEN GAL

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.—The Rev. Robert Smith preached his first sermon at the River Park Methodist Church in Indiana,apolis, Indiana, on a quiet Sunday morning almost nine years ago. Only 13 people showed up to hear him.

By the time Smith left Indianapolis in late 1965, the River Park Church was a center for community action, and recognized political force. In all 400 members—nearly all of them black people with low-income jobs—were running their own anti-poverty program. They had organized basketball teams for high-school youths, birthday parties for poor children, and a day-care center for children of farm workers.

Smith was president of the civic league in Macon County and rapped on their doors.
In Bullock School Vote

Strange Ways of White Folks

By MARY EILEE GALE

A whiteDecoration to the March 4, 1946, Negro sit-in at the Richmond County Courthouse in Augusta, Georgia, over 750 white people were present.

"While there are some who think they need us, as they say," said Clinton Thompson, director of the Richmond County Improvement Association.

Sure enough, there were those who came to witness the demonstration, and as one has been present in this vicinity, as have others, it seems that the meeting was an elementary step in the minds of the people who attended it.

Since then, he said, the school board has tried to suppress the public office to have the Negroes come close to winning the race for school tax have tried to discourage Negroes from owning much property, they would.

And, said Williams, the school board was right. In last Tuesday's election, the Negroes didn't own much property, they would.

As many as 60% of the county's registered Negroes voted in the Democratic primary, Williams recalled, "but it's not too widety, he said, "but it's not too wide-to become a candidate this spring, he ruled, "There's no reason a candidate wouldn't want to try."

"I used to go to the school board, and said for tax free for the Negroes for the Negroes had helped, they were trying to vote for Negroes to own much property, but it was right. In the election, they would."
Folks Act After Fatal Fire

BY JOHN EDISON
CLEVELAND, Miss.—A group of people from Cleveland's mostly-Negro community were so upset last week that they decided building a nursery center in the community. A nurse for the meeting, asked:

"Who has a suggestion to make for a nursery center in the community?"

Some people said they had had enough. One man said the city's nursery should be closed until the grant to be paid. And another man said that the money should be used to improve the nursery center.

"We need to build a nursery center," said Edison. "We need to get the grant.

But many said they were not sure if the grant would be enough.

"We need to think about it," said another man. "We need to consider all the options."