9 Kids, No Bail

BY BOB LABAREE

Reports from Montgomery, Ala., said that Jesse Parham has arrived at the Montgomery County jail, where he was placed in custody, following his arrest on Sunday.

The arrest was the result of an investigation by the Montgomery County Sheriff's Department into a series of bomb threats that were made against the Montgomery County jail.

Jesse Parham was taken into custody after he was found in possession of a large quantity of bomb-making materials.

The investigation is continuing, and additional arrests may be made.

Federal Funds Misused, Barbour Group Charges

BY MARY ELLEN DAVE

Eufaula, Ala. - NAACP leaders in Barbour County have accused school officials of discouraging children from attending school.

"This is the time of federal funds," a coordinator of the Eufaula school board said. "There is no way that we can get these funds without working with the local school board to see that the children know what they are doing."
The Southern Courier

DECEMBER 2-3, 1967

Editor

Michael L. Efford

Associate Editor

Charles E. Williams

Managing Editor

Lewis E. Colvin

Solicitor

Charles E. Williams

College Editor

Cornelius C. Williams

Sports Editor

Robert G. Williams

Editorial Board

Robert G. Williams, Frank E. White, John W. Wilson, Jr.

Business Manager

Margaret H. Dabney

Compositors

Barbara H. Flowers, Mary Corbin, Mamie Ware

Subscription Manager

Margaret H. Dabney

Mailing Office

3412 20th Street, Montgomery, Alabama 36104

Publication Information

THE SOUTHERN COURIER is published weekly by a non-profit, non-share corporation, for the study and dissemination of accurate information about the Negro experience. The organization is supported by subscriptions, and the publication is non-partisan and non-political.

---

What Do They Want? JOBS

By Eunice Collins

Companies in Montgomery and other cities say they are having trouble finding workers. The situation is particularly acute in the food processing, machine tool, and apparel industries. Many companies are offering bonuses and other incentives to attract workers. However, some employers say they are still unable to fill openings.

---

Drive Opens In Copiah

By Charles E. Williams

The Copiah County Board of Supervisors has opened a new plant in the county, creating new jobs. Local officials say the plant will bring much-needed employment to the area.

---

FEATHERSTONE AND BARNETT (LEFT) DISTRIBUTE FOOD

Ralph Featherstone of radio station WRMA and Roosevelt Barnett of the Jackson State College radio station are shown distributing food at a community center in Jackson, Mississippi. The two men are part of a volunteer effort to help the needy in the area.

---

The Winner

By Eunice Collins

Selma Strikers Look to Open New Plant

The strikers of the Alabama-Coushatta Tribe have been successful in their efforts to open a new plant in the area. The plant will create new jobs and provide economic opportunities for the community.

---

I'm Going to Tell It To The High Heavens

By Mary Ellen Cade

Tuskegee, Ala.—Although Tuskegee University enjoys a reputation for academic excellence, many students and faculty members are concerned about the lack of meaningful employment opportunities for qualified African Americans.

---

MACAC Hit

By Ed Hough

The March Against Conditions in the Community (MACAC) held a rally in Washington, D.C., on June 30, 1967, to demand justice for the Civil Rights Movement. The rally was attended by thousands of people from across the country.

---

Jobs by DOB LAMASER

Robeson, N.C.—After almost two weeks of negotations, Negroes have scored an important victory in Robeson County. The county commissioners have agreed to create a new job training program to help young people find work.

---

Featherstone and Barnett (left) distribute food.

---

FEATHERSTONE AND BARNETT (LEFT) DISTRIBUTE FOOD

---

WEB WOOTER AND HER DAUGHTER

Parke, Ill.—Both WEB Wooter and her daughter, who graduated from the University of Illinois, are struggling to find work in the city. The two women are part of a growing number of graduates who are facing difficulties in finding employment.

---

The Southern Courier (ISSN 0038-3007) is published weekly by a non-profit, non-share corporation, for the study and dissemination of accurate information about the Negro experience. The organization is supported by subscriptions, and the publication is non-partisan and non-political.

---

SUBSCRIPTION GNU

3412 20th Street, Montgomery, Alabama 36104

---

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

---

THE SOUTHERN COURIER

---

THE SOUTHERN COURIER

---

Subscribe to THE SOUTHERN COURIER

The Southern Courier is published weekly by a non-profit, non-share corporation, for the study and dissemination of accurate information about the Negro experience. The organization is supported by subscriptions, and the publication is non-partisan and non-political.
The Story of the Bracy Family

On Jan. 1, 1966, the House Was Bombed

WETUMKA, Ala.—In August, 1965, my sister Sophia and I were two of the 20 Negro students who enrolled at formerly all-white Wetumpka High School. Trouble began for us about two weeks after we enrolled.

First, the bus driver told us he couldn't pick us up at home any more. Then on Oct. 1, I jabbed a white boy with a pencil after getting hit in the back by a rubber band. This got me an assault and battery charge and a "five-day" suspension—which lasted until Jan. 3, 1966.

On Jan. 1, 1966, the house was bombed. We managed to save a mattress, the sewing machine, a dresser, and the washing machine before the house was engulfed in flames.

After that, we went to live with my uncle and aunt. In their five-room house, there were four beds for 12 people.

In April, 1966, we moved into an old-time house. In the winter, we had to stuff rags in the cracks of the house, and we stacked coats, quilts, and other coverings on the beds when we slept, but we made it through the struggle.

Now our new house is almost finished. There are six rooms and a hall, and we have water in the house.

For the time being, most of our work is centered around our farm. It takes some time to gather the crops, especially with the children in school. However, it's our own, and we are very proud of it.

Text by Debra Bracy

Photos by Jim Peppler

ALEXANDER BRACY (ABOVE)

MRS. MARIE BRACY (ABOVE)

WETUMKA, Ala.—In August, 1965, my sister Sophia and I were two of the 20 Negro students who enrolled at formerly all-white Wetumpka High School. Trouble began for us about two weeks after we enrolled.

First, the bus driver told us he couldn't pick us up at home any more. Then on Oct. 1, I jabbed a white boy with a pencil after getting hit in the back by a rubber band. This got me an assault and battery charge and a "five-day" suspension—which lasted until Jan. 3, 1966.

On Jan. 1, 1966, the house was bombed. We managed to save a mattress, the sewing machine, a dresser, and the washing machine before the house was engulfed in flames.

After that, we went to live with my uncle and aunt. In their five-room house, there were four beds for 12 people.

In April, 1966, we moved into an old-time house. In the winter, we had to stuff rags in the cracks of the house, and we stacked coats, quilts, and other coverings on the beds when we slept, but we made it through the struggle.

Now our new house is almost finished. There are six rooms and a hall, and we have water in the house.

For the time being, most of our work is centered around our farm. It takes some time to gather the crops, especially with the children in school. However, it's our own, and we are very proud of it.

Text by Debra Bracy

Photos by Jim Peppler

ALEXANDER BRACY (ABOVE)

MRS. MARIE BRACY (ABOVE)

WETUMKA, Ala.—In August, 1965, my sister Sophia and I were two of the 20 Negro students who enrolled at formerly all-white Wetumpka High School. Trouble began for us about two weeks after we enrolled.

First, the bus driver told us he couldn't pick us up at home any more. Then on Oct. 1, I jabbed a white boy with a pencil after getting hit in the back by a rubber band. This got me an assault and battery charge and a "five-day" suspension—which lasted until Jan. 3, 1966.

On Jan. 1, 1966, the house was bombed. We managed to save a mattress, the sewing machine, a dresser, and the washing machine before the house was engulfed in flames.

After that, we went to live with my uncle and aunt. In their five-room house, there were four beds for 12 people.

In April, 1966, we moved into an old-time house. In the winter, we had to stuff rags in the cracks of the house, and we stacked coats, quilts, and other coverings on the beds when we slept, but we made it through the struggle.

Now our new house is almost finished. There are six rooms and a hall, and we have water in the house.

For the time being, most of our work is centered around our farm. It takes some time to gather the crops, especially with the children in school. However, it's our own, and we are very proud of it.

Text by Debra Bracy

Photos by Jim Peppler

ALEXANDER BRACY (ABOVE)

MRS. MARIE BRACY (ABOVE)
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1967

FARM IN GREEN COUNTY

--- Photo by James J. Lytle

The Browns, a family of tenant farmers in Hale County in central Alabama, share their home with rats, mice, and lizards. The land is part of a long-term federal farm program called the Federal Rural Research Project (SRRP) at the University of Alabama. The SRRP's training session was held at the home of Nicholas Browns, the family's agent. The Browns have 12 children, ranging in age from 2 to 12. In addition to farming, they work as janitors and janitors' assistants for the SRRP. The Browns' home is a one-room wooden shack with a primitive kitchen and a small fireplace for heating. The children must share a single room for cooking and sleeping. The family's income is derived from the sale of cotton, soybeans, and hay. The Browns have little access to medical care or education. The SRRP is investigating living conditions and food and health problems through interviews with Negro farmers in Alabama and Mississippi.

The report is based on interviews with 1,000 Negro farmers across the South. The SRRP's training session was held at the home of Nicholas Browns, the family's agent. The Browns have 12 children, ranging in age from 2 to 12. In addition to farming, they work as janitors and janitors' assistants for the SRRP. The Browns' home is a one-room wooden shack with a primitive kitchen and a small fireplace for heating. The children must share a single room for cooking and sleeping. The family's income is derived from the sale of cotton, soybeans, and hay. The Browns have little access to medical care or education. The SRRP is investigating living conditions and food and health problems through interviews with Negro farmers in Alabama and Mississippi.

The report is based on interviews with 1,000 Negro farmers across the South. The SRRP's training session was held at the home of Nicholas Browns, the family's agent. The Browns have 12 children, ranging in age from 2 to 12. In addition to farming, they work as janitors and janitors' assistants for the SRRP. The Browns' home is a one-room wooden shack with a primitive kitchen and a small fireplace for heating. The children must share a single room for cooking and sleeping. The family's income is derived from the sale of cotton, soybeans, and hay. The Browns have little access to medical care or education. The SRRP is investigating living conditions and food and health problems through interviews with Negro farmers in Alabama and Mississippi.
People Hit Plans For Renewal in Tuscaloosa

BY ANDREW L. MORGAN
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. – Tuscaloosa’s urban renewal plan is well underway and the planning stage is already running into problems.

A triangular piece of land, located on the east side of the town and bordered by Alabama Avenue, and 16th Ave., has been designated as a renewal area. Many of the residents of Tuscaloosa are working on a renewal project, but most of the residents of Tuscaloosa are working on a renewal project.

Six-week period when most Alabamians whites wait on the inside and told the clerks on Human Relations (ACHR), which registered to vote during a 30-day spe­

VEGETABLE BOX \8.00

The Alabama state legislature has approved a bill that would make it easier for Alabamians to register to vote. The bill, which was introduced by state Rep. John McCall, D-Tuscaloosa, allows residents to register to vote during a 30-day spe­

GLENCE: Towns of Tuscaloosa are offering programs for anyone who wants to learn about the town.

Some people reported that the registr­

Equal streets? Are we going to have a town where people can travel freely without fear of violence?

Some people reported that the registra­

The registration asked some tough questions, especially on one's estimation of the state. The registration asked some tough questions, especially on one's estimation of the state.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.

We should be proud of our town and the way people work together to keep our town strong.
Tuskegee Tops ASC

BY ALVIN G. LAYTON

Tuskegee, Ala.—Tuskegee once again was the victor in a scoring battle with ASU and took the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship with a 41-30 win over Alabama State in Tallahassee, Fla.

Tuskegee took a 7-0 lead when Crump scored the first touchdown of the game on a 12-yard run. But ASU then scored the next 14 points to take the lead. ASU’s quarterback, Mike Morgan, completed 6 of 14 passes for 130 yards and two touchdowns. The Hornets scored on a 6-yard run by Ransaw and a 15-yard pass from Morgan to James Brown.

In the second quarter, the Hornets scored on a 34-yard field goal by Ransaw, followed by a 14-yard touchdown pass from Morgan to Brown. Tuskegee then scored on a 9-yard touchdown pass from Crump to Warner Hightower.

In the third quarter, ASU scored on a 1-yard touchdown run by Ransaw. Tuskegee then scored on a 4-yard touchdown pass from Crump to Hightower. The Hornets scored on a 30-yard touchdown run by Ransaw.

In the fourth quarter, Tuskegee scored on a 1-yard touchdown run by Crump. The Hornets scored on a 27-yard touchdown pass from Morgan to Brown.

Tuskegee took the lead back when Crump scored a 45-yard touchdown run. But ASU scored on a 35-yard touchdown pass from Morgan to Brown.

Tuskegee scored the final touchdown of the game on a 2-yard touchdown run by Crump. The Hornets scored on a 1-yard touchdown run by Ransaw.

The Tuskegee defense was led by Crump, who recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass. The Hornets defense was led by Ransaw, who had 10 tackles.

Tuskegee won the game with a strong second half, scoring 27 points in the quarter. The Hornets had no points in the quarter.

Tuskegee’s victory in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship game gives them a strong chance of being invited to the Orange Bowl for the second straight year. The Tigers have had a difficult season, but they have shown their ability to come back from adversity.

Tuskegee’s victory over ASU was crucial for their season. The Tigers were struggling and needed a win to keep their bowl hopes alive. Their victory over ASU was a huge boost for their confidence and momentum.

The Tigers are now 7-3 and will look to continue their momentum in their final game of the season. They will face a tough challenge against a strong opponent, but they have shown they can compete with the best.

In Basketball Scrimmage

BY CHARLES THOMAS

ALABAMA CITY, Ala.—Alabama State and Tuskegee began a basketball scrimmage as part of a national program, the American Basketball Association (ABA). Tuskegee won the game, 108-75.

Tuskegee’s victory was led by Crump, who scored 34 points. The Tigers were led by Crump, who scored 34 points. The Tigers were led by Crump, who scored 34 points.

Tuskegee’s victory was a testament to their ability to play tough basketball. They have shown they can compete with the best teams in the nation, and their victory over Alabama State was a huge boost for their confidence.

The Tigers are now 7-3 in the ABA and will look to continue their momentum in their final game of the season. They will face a tough challenge against a strong opponent, but they have shown they can compete with the best.