‘Need a Black Person To Represent Blacks’

BY J. D. SMITH

GREENSBORO, Ala.—Workers arriving at the Robert R. Harper-Cooper Center earlier this month found the windows broken and the door open. They had been told to expect trouble.

“After talking with the FBI and the state Highway Patrol, Wilson said the police came around and reported giving away all about 11:30 (p.m.) from the corner of the service station across from the office building,” traveling vice president, said Wilson, the office owner let them have the place.

Workers painted the windows and put the sign up on the 11th floor. The workers are being represented by the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees.

Free Speech for Whom?

The Democratic Student Organization at the University of Alabama recently invited four controversial figures to speak on campus. Willie Isadore, leader of the Black Panthers, and Tom Hayden of Students for a Democratic Society.

Professor Cleaver of the Black Panthers, and Tom Hayden of Students for a Democratic Society. Both have had their ideas rejected by the courts, because the people who ran them did not like the ideas.

The Supreme Court has been the enemy of the American black man. Steel says in his book, "We Have No Choice," that the Supreme Court has not been sympathetic to the needs of the black man. The court has been sympathetic to the needs of the white man, and that is what they have been doing.

It is not that we agree with Steel's article, but we do agree with the National Organization for Peace, which is an organization that supports the black man. We support the National Organization for Peace because they support the black man.

If we don't think that they should have the right to speak on campus, then we should not have the right to speak on campus. The right to free speech is ours, but it is not ours alone.

We support the National Organization for Peace because they support the black man. We support the National Organization for Peace because they support the black man.

A Marine from Alabama

BY ROBERT CLAY MOORE

It is a great honor to have the opportunity to write about a man as great as the person who gave his life in service to his country.

The story of this brave Marine is one that should be told to all young people.

He was a hero, and he will be remembered for generations to come.

NAACP Acts Strangely

The NAACP seems to be intent on proving that white racists haven't learned the market of oppression and discrimination. Last week, the national organization filed its associate counsel, a 31-year-old white lawyer, because he wrote an article that criticized the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Washington Post -- which has won several hearings and fair trials for thousands of people -- didn't bother giving one to the young lawyer. The lawyer, Lewis W., said he learned he was fired only after coming back from lunch.

SELMA, Ala.—Four families in Alabama's poverty belt received clothing and food last week from the members of the First Baptist Church of East Chicago, Indiana.

The church was most generous of the families were its representatives wrote to the Selma-based Southern Rural Research Project (SRRP) after viewing a TV show on "Hunger in America." The church was sent the names of the families when its representatives wrote to the Selma-based Southern Rural Research Project (SRRP) after viewing a TV show on "Hunger in America."

Two officers of the church arrived at the SRRP office in a red panel truck around noon on Oct. 15. They appeared somewhat surprised when they found that none of the families selected to receive the food and clothing was there to meet them.

"Where are the people?" one of the men asked. He was soon to find out just how far away they were, for it took the rest of the day to find the four families.

The problem was that the East Chicago church had been told in 1967 that the families, along with the food and clothing, would arrive on "Wednesday, Oct. 15." But there was none of the families showed up then.

Miss Dondra Simmons of SRRP took those two addresses, but nobody was sure of the other two. Another difficulty was that the church had given the families enough time to prepare for the long trip to their homes in Hale and Marengo counties.

The church officers first considered giving up and driving back to East Chicago. But then, with the help of SRRP, they set out to find the families. Long after dark, the huge load of goods was finally delivered.

In Fort Deposit, the black voters had a rough time at the polls. They were e1ving out the white candidates' cards. As they work toward the Nov. 5 ballot, they have not established their claim to the freedom of the city, the county to apply for federal projects.

Mrs. Webb, a Negro, said she ran as a candidate for the democratic nomination for place on the school board. She said she got less than 100 votes.

"We're trying to change some of the white voters," Mrs. Webb said. "They didn't think the white voters had a chance. We were e1ving out the white candidates' cards."
