A Black Amas in Mobile?

BY JON EDBLIGNTON

The quilt was Merrie, a decorated veteran of World War II, a member of the NAACP, and a "Black leader." She spoke of being in the stores: "If you're not a millionaire, they'll give you a bunch of stuff."

Somebody Cares

Thank goodness somebody cares about our country.

The Willie Blobb Group has registered to vote in the November elections of Oct. 24. Mrs. Alabama Congressman Jack Edwards, a Republican. of our National Anthem over national radio and television, is holding a joint convention in the Admiral Semmes Hotel this way:

'We Do a Little At a Time'

Mt. Meigs, Ala.—"We try to reach the child before he gets into trouble," says the Rev. Michael Coswell, school director at Boys Town. Coswell has been with the school for homeless youths since it was built 18 years ago.

Located on a plot of land five miles from town for the 45 boys now living there, "There are no restrictions on the children here," Coswell explained. "Usually, if a boy leaves without permission, we let him go."

Jerry Bledie, one of the older pates, was born in Mobile and has been living in Boys Town for 12 years. Most of the structures at the school were built by the boys, Bledie said, and the boys place great sentimental value on them.

"We do a little at a time until we finish," Bledie said, as he spoke of plans for a swimming pool, a game room, and a new chapel. "I'm dreaming," he said, "but many of the things we've had started this way."

Civil Rights Low-Point of the Year

Facing harassment and even threats, volunteers from the Southern Rural Research Project took free meals to Under, Ala., last summer, and sure enough, some crackers had put a ditch on the side of the road, right where they drove their truck.
